Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3679

With reference to Attachment A, Guest discloses a quick connector comprising: a body having a center through hole, a constrictor groove formed in said center through hole and having a front wall, an intermediate straight annular wall and an upper-sloped annular wall, and an O-shaped ring (17) fitted in the constrictor groove; a tube constrictor (12) inserted in the constrictor groove of said body, and having a flange formed in an outer end, a center hole for a tube (11) to extend therein, a plurality of upright elastic petals (26) spaced apart equidistantly and extending down from said flange, every two of said elastic petals separated by a gap (25), said elastic petals respectively having an innermost portion, said innermost portion having a pointed tip formed at its end and a clamp member (28) formed integral on an inner surface to push against an outer surface of the tube inserted in said center through hole of said tube constrictor, each said clamp member having an inner diameter D1 shorter than that of said through hole of said tube constrictor and an angle (30) smaller than 80 degrees to firmly constrict the tube.
